LIFE TEEN

SACKED

A Life Night on the Problem of Suffering

Suffering has never been easy. Often times we are tempted to think that if God is good and truly loves us, then he would protect us from pain, sorrow and death. However, reflecting on Jesus's Passion teaches us a valuable lesson: suffering serves a greater purpose. In this Life Night students will explore the reality of suffering and be encouraged to trust God's greater purpose in the midst of it.

Biblical Covenants: Old and New

This evening students will encounter the God who keeps his promises as they learn about the covenants found in Sacred Scripture. Beginning with the covenants made with Abraham, Moses and King David, and culminating with the ultimate fulfillment in Christ Jesus. God makes and keeps his promise to bring salvation to the world. God's saving action fulfilled in Jesus continues to be fulfilled by the power of the Holy Spirit acting through the Church.

Sunday, October 19th Rosary Sunday Breathing life into your prayer

Here are a few simple suggestions about how to remain “at home” with God no matter where you’re praying the rosary. As skiers do stretching exercises before hitting the slopes, take time to relax and breathe deeply before beginning to pray. Imagine yourself breathing life into your prayer. Then ease into the prayer while remaining in touch with the steady rhythm of the Spirit breathing and praying in you.

As schoolchildren read one chapter a day, decide to reflect on one mystery at a time with the undivided attention usually reserved for loved ones who have been away too long. The same approach can be used for each of the consecutive four mysteries. You can get through an entire decade this way. Be patient with yourself if distractions come. Gently let them go and move back to the mystery at hand.

You may find it helpful to pray a mystery that connects most closely with your life at that particular time. For instance, when facing a difficult decision or wondering what direction God wants you to take, ponder the Baptism of the Lord. Connect with Jesus as he leaves his earlier life behind and emerges from the Jordan to do the work of the Beloved Son.

Or, when the comfort and predictability of your life are suddenly disrupted by some unexpected but demanding opportunity, ponder the Annunciation. Connect with Mary as the blessed disturbance of Gabriel’s message—and her daring “YES”—turning her young life upside down and sideways.

More important than any suggestions, tools or techniques for praying the rosary is the conviction that God treasures each word, each thought, each quiet pondering in which our hearts are invested. And the more practiced we become at staying “at home” with our loving God, the more meaningful the rosary will become in our daily lives.

(Excerpt taken from Catholic Update)

Saint Paul of the Cross

Feast Day: October 19

Founder of the Passionists Community

Paolo (Paul) Francesco Danei was born on January 3, 1694, near Genoa, Italy, the eldest son of a poor noble family. He refused marriage and denied himself an inheritance left to him by an uncle. At age 21, the young man joined a crusade against the Turks, but soon left to take up a life of solitude and prayer.

In 1720, Paul had a vision of Our Lady, who told him to found an order devoted to preaching the Passion of Christ. Paul received permission from the Bishop of Alessandria to wear a black tunic, as seen in his vision, and was allowed to serve the Church. Bareheaded and barefooted, Paul retired to a cell for 40 days, during which time he wrote a Rule that later became the basis of a monastic community known as the Passionists.

The Order emphasized prayer, fasting, exercise, penance and charity, and it attracted many followers. A few years later, Paul was ordained a priest in 1727.

Later that year, Paul and his younger brother, John Baptist, opened a house on Monte Argentario. Fourteen years later, Pope Benedict XIV gave approval for a modified Rule to the Barefooted Clerks of the Holy Cross and Passion, and Paul was elected the first superior general of the Order, a post he would hold for the rest of his life.

Paul exemplified the sacred life of the Passionists by writing and preaching about Christ’s passion and death while leading an austere existence. For 50 years he walked from town to town converting sinners and teaching people how to pray. He died at age 81 and was canonized by Pope Pius IX in 1867. The Passionist Community continues his work to this day.

The Passionists of Holy Cross is a Catholic religious community of priests, brothers and laity committed to proclaiming the Passion of Jesus as a message of hope, love and reconciliation for the world.
